FOR NATIONAL SECURITY—

The Wool Textile Industry

By KENNETH W. MARRINER

Chairman, Wool Industry Advisory Committee Munitions Board; President, Winslow
Bros. & Smith Co.

MOBILIZATION brings with it huge requirements from the armed services for blankets, yarns to be knit by other industries into items such as socks, underwear, sweaters, caps, etc., and various types of wool cloths for uniforms, shirts, coats, and linings. In point of timing, the need for clothing ranks at the top with food and housing. For the last war the Armed Services placed orders in 1942 for delivery of almost 30,000,000 blankets and over 200,000,000 yards of wool cloths.

Mr. Marriner

There are today adequate manufacturing facilities in existence in the industry in this country to meet requirements, and the problems of conversion from civilian to military work are relatively minor. Following World War I the Bureau of the Census undertook the collection of current information on wool stocks, wool consumption, and the amount and activity of key machinery in the industry. During World War II these basic reports were expanded considerably to include current reports on all raw material consumption and on the flow of materials through each important stage to the production of cloth. The skeleton of this set-up, with considerable refinement, remains in operation, and provides not only a continuing check on key facilities in the industry and their operation but also a going system that could be readily expanded to meet the special requirements of mobilization. Perhaps some consideration needs to be given to equitable and efficient distribution of military orders over the industry, and experience of the last two emergencies has included conversion of some facilities of the carpet industry, which becomes a war casualty. But the core of planning for mobilization involves the supply of wool and the length of the manufacturing cycle from wool to cloth and thence to garments.

The mill consumption of apparel class shorn and pulled wools during the last war ran in the neighborhood of 600,000,000 pounds per year on a scoured basis—or roughly double the pre-war rate. Production of wools in this country at that time amounted to around 200,000,000 pounds on a scoured basis. Since then our domestic production has fallen sharply, and now totals only about 125,000,000 pounds. Prior to our entry into the last war the possibility of a wool shortage was early recognized and, in October, 1940, an agreement was announced with the United

House Group Backs
112 New Navy Ships

Motivated by what it termed a "pressing need" for new naval vessels in the Atomic Age, the House Armed Services Committee this week voted to report favorably legislation providing $350,000,000 for construction of 112 new ships and craft—including a nuclear-powered submarine—and for conversion of 29 existing types—one of them to be a powerful guided-missiles cruiser.

The new construction is for about 14,466 tons at a cost of $129,900,000 while the conversion program would affect 96,695 tons and would cost $184,675,000.

The largest single item in both the new construction and conversion programs would each cost $40,000,000. This sum is provided for an atomic submarine of 2500 tons and for conversion of a 13,700-ton cruiser for guided missiles.

The Armed Services Committee said Congress should vote authorization for $39,800,000 for conversion of a fleet aircraft carrier to permit the launching, operation and recovery of better equipped, better armed and heavier planes.

Actual funds for this construction and conversion largely will be asked in the 1952 budget. The budget for fiscal year 1951, it is noted, provides no money for new ship building, although about $300,000,000 will be expended on previous ship construction and conversion programs.

The 1951 budget provides funds for continuing the construction of the following vessels:

Fast attack submarines	6
Submarine killers (antisubmarine)	3
Hunter killer (antisubmarine cruiser)	1
Destroyers, new design	4
Auxiliary motor mine-sweeper	1
Countermeasures	2
Aircraft carrier (Essex type)	1
Task fleet command ship	1
Experimental destroyer	1
Destroyer escort	1
Hunter killer destroyers	2
Fleet-type submarines	3
Experimental motor-torpedo boats	4
Destroyer tender	1

All the foregoing are new ships under construction. In addition, funds are provided for continuing conversion work on:

Destroyer escorts	19
Destroyers (antisubmarine warfare)	6
Small aircraft carriers (antisubmarine warfare)	2
Aircraft carriers (Essex type)	4
Escort vessels (radar picket)	2
Cargo submarine	1
Submarine transports	2
Submarines (radar picket)	2
Submarine killer (large) (antisubmarine)	1
Submarine oiler	1
Attack cargo ship	1
Landing ships, dock for Arctic service	1

In reporting H.R. 7764, "Authorizing the Construction of Modern Naval Vessels," the Armed Services Committee said the end of World War II left the Navy with many ships of numerous types, but warned that "there is a pressing need for the vessels which will take the place of those needed for another day now passed.

The bill, as originally introduced by Chairman Vinson, would have provided $500,000,000 for construction and conver-

Air Officer Promotions

The Air Force indicated this week that the central selection board to recommend officers for temporary promotions to the ranks of colonel and lieutenant colonel under the new system which provides for creation of an eligibility list will meet late this month or early in June.

Nominations for these temporary promotions have already been received from major commands.

Boards will meet in the major commands to recommend temporary promotions to the ranks of captain and major.

Regular Army Promotions

The President sent to the Senate this week the nominations of 920 Regular Army officers for permanent promotions to the grades of colonel, lieutenant colonel, major and captain.

Included in the lists approved by the White House were the names of 112 Army Promotion List and 58 special promotion list lieutenant colonels recently selected for permanent advancement to the grade of colonel. The 112 officers named by the President for promotion to permanent colonel were from among a total list of 380 Army Promotion List lieutenant colonels selected for promotion.

This list was published in the 15 April issue of THE JOURNAL. The President's nominations begin with the name of William B. Yancey, No. 1 on the list of 380, and end with Egon R. Tausch, No. 112. The remaining 268 Army Promotion List permanent lieutenant colonels will be advanced as vacancies develop.

In addition to the nominations for promotion to permanent colonel, the President asked the Senate to confirm the following number of permanent promotions on the Army Promotion List.

To Lieutenant Colonel—135

To Major—283

To Captain—231

On the special promotion lists, the nominations made this week were as follows:

Col., JAGC—10 (names appeared in the 11 March issue of THE JOURNAL).

Col., MC—33 (from among selection list of 56, published in the 11 March issue).

Col., DC—4 (from list of nine selections, 11 March issue).

Col., MSC—6 (from list of eight selections, 11 March issue).

Col., ChC—5 (from list of five selections, 25 March issue).

The 135 officers nominated to be permanent lieutenant colonels have been on a waiting list since their selection last Fall. The 12 Nov. 1949 issue of THE JOURNAL printed the names of 518 permanent majors, chosen from among 605 considered for advancement to permanent lieutenant colonel. The No. 1 name on that list was that of Louis I. Parsell. It is noted that the President's nominations actually extend through No. 137, Edwin L. Andrick.

Army officials said that after the 135 promotions are made, there will remain 381 permanent majors on the waiting list for promotion to lieutenant colonel.

The 283 captains on the Army Promotion List who are to be promoted to permanent major were selected on a list,

Stronger Defenses
Discussed in House

Debate on the Military Appropriations bill this week in the House was confined largely to expressions of regret that stronger defense forces are not provided.

Whereas in virtually all past peace years the debate on military appropriations has been characterized by attacks on the size of the budget and urging the necessity for reducing the forces, this year almost the reverse was true with both democratic and republican participants stressing the need for a strong defense posture.

Representative Harry R. Sheppard (D-Calif.), who handled the bill on the floor, sounded the key-note when he declared that "in the search for economy we would do well to scrutinize expenditures, for example subsidies, and various other sundry governmental operations and make our reductions there so that we may preserve an adequate military establishment for the defense of our nation."

Many of the speakers felt that the budget as presented by the administration represented a backward step and did not provide the forces needed in the current world situation. There were attacks, too, on the "dictatorial impounding" of the funds provided in last year's bill for the purchase of aircraft.

Significant excerpts from the "debate" follow:

Rep. Sheppard (D-Calif.). "I think, in general, if I have any adverse comments to make about the bill, it is because I am concerned over the international aspects as they presently prevail. I am sometimes confronted with the thought, Are we doing as much as we ought to do in providing our military forces with adequate and advanced materiel of all types and characters in order that we may preserve the integrity of our form of government and our way of living?"

"Today our national security is in constant danger. If we act intelligently, as I believe we will, we will approach the problems of our national defense with a great deal of concern and sympathetic understanding. I realize, as we all do, there is a limit to the capacity of the economy of our nation to provide funds for any operation in the governmental departments. But, at the same time, it does seem to me, in the search for economy we would do well to scrutinize expenditures, for example subsidies, and various and sundry other governmental operations and make our reductions there so that we may preserve an adequate military establishment for the defense of our Nation."

"On April 26 the Secretary of Defense reappeared before our subcommittee and requested additional funds. He made a considerable statement off the record relative to the reasons for the request. But I can say to you Members of the House that he presented to our committee what, in our opinion, were justifications for the added request up to a point. Resulting from his request, the Navy originally had $475,000,000 in its contract authority aspect. Under the request of the Secretary of Defense, the subcommittee presented to the whole committee, and, in turn, we are going to present it later, in the form of amendments to the bill, to this committee, of an additional $100,000,000, which will make the total in that respect $575,000,000. For contract authority for the Air Force there was originally $610,000,000. The Secretary of Defense asked for $2,000,000 more.

Milwaukee Journal—"Can half a billion be the difference between just enough and not enough for defense next year? If so, the country can afford it—must afford it."

Salem, Oreg., Capital Journal—"When Secretary of Defense Johnson makes a statement that he and General Eisenhower have no basic differences over what kind of defenses the United States should have, the statement doesn't make sense. And that is where the confusion comes in. Johnson tends to confuse rather than to clarify."

Charleston, W. Va., Gazette—"It is essential to get the utmost out of each dollar spent for national defense. Our present setup under Louis Johnson is doing just that . . . Louis Johnson is deserving of the thanks of all American citizens who are interested in maximum defense at a bearable cost."

Wilmington, Del., Morning News—"It stands to reason that Mr. Finletter, with his backlog of government experience, and his familiarity with Air Force problems, can step into Mr. Symington's shoes without missing a step. This is reassuring in view of the critical days that lie ahead."

Buffalo Courier-Express—"Mr. Symington and Mr. Finletter are both men of experience and demonstrated ability and are admirably qualified for continued service in important public office."

St. Louis Post-Dispatch—"Mr. Finletter has been, is and will be strong for the Air Force. That is as it should be. . . The Pentagon receives a thoughtful and energetic new executive who should give an excellent account of himself."

Columbus, Ohio, Citizen—"Generally, in matters of national defense, Mr. Finletter has always seen eye to eye with W. Stuart Symington, the man he will succeed. That in itself is reassuring. Of his reputed capabilities and competency we have no doubt."

Wool Textile Industry

Kingdom for a stockpile of wools to be maintained in this country. Only about 100,000,000 pounds of wool on a scoured basis had reached this country for storage prior to "Pearl Harbor"; but fortunately shipping lanes remained open and bottoms were available to move a large tonnage of wool from Australia, and the supply position improved steadily and rapidly during 1942. By the close of the year the strategic stockpile had grown to almost 400,000,000 pounds on a scoured basis.

Obviously one of the requirements of an emergency is the maintenance and, if possible, expansion of the production of wool in this country. The procedure adopted in the early part of the last war when the Quartermaster Corps paid a premium for cloths made from domestic wools did not prove satisfactory. It introduced numerous difficulties into the procurement processes, and at times actually hampered buying.

It, therefore, is clear that there will be a heavy dependence on distant foreign sources for large quantities of wools. The foreign sources of wool are mainly in the Southern Hemisphere and include Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and South America. Availability will depend on control of the sea lanes and on adequate shipping facilities. These circumstances point to the need and desirability for stockpiling, and immediately raise the question of the form in which the stockpile should be carried. Wool can be stored in numerous forms. It might be accumulated as shorn from the sheep as grease wool; or with the grease and dirt removed as scoured wool; or processed into tops, yarns, cloths, or even garments. There are both advantages and disadvantages in all these forms. Initial accumulation in the form of garments and cloth are clearly indicated, however, not only from the viewpoint of storage and manufacturing problems but also from consideration of the length of the manufacturing cycle from wool to cloth and thence to garments.

Deliveries against orders for wool cloths cannot be expected until the third or fourth month following the placing of the orders, and deliveries of garments made from these cloths are another two to three months distant. Consequently, supply can be made continuous only if garments are stored in sufficient quantity to meet immediate mobilization requirements and cloth is held in quantities that will support the cutting operations indicated necessary for the early months of mobilization requirements. Perhaps such stocks of garments and cloths should be considered proper peacetime operational stocks of the supply services, as they rightfully are, rather than stockpiles; but regardless of name they deserve first rank in the order of planning.

There remains the possibility that despite all efforts, the wool supply may still prove inadequate, and steps will be needed to conserve the use of wool even in military cloths and blankets. This can be done by blending wool with other fibers that may be in adequate supply from domestic sources such as cotton and synthetic staple fibers. Alternate specifications, based on successive degrees of necessary conservation of wool, should be prepared, tested, and be ready for use in case of emergency.

The Munitions Board on 17 June, 1947, established a Textile Industry Advisory Committee to advise the Board in the development of the military aspects of industrial mobilization plans and on procurement plans in connection with the national stockpile of strategic and critical materials. This committee consisted of three sub-committees, one for cotton, another for wool, and the third for synthetic fibers and silk. On 8 June, 1949, the three sub-committees were each given full committee status and the Textile Industry Committee dissolved.

A meeting of the Wool Industry Committee on 13 January, 1949, was devoted mainly to a discussion of the problems of stockpiling wool. The committee recommended to the Munitions Board that wool be transferred on the listings of strategic and critical materials from Group 2 to Group 1a and that it be stockpiled in the following order: (1) garments to meet initial mobilization requirements; (2) fabric and knitting yarns to sustain cutting and knitting operations during the early months of mobilization, and (3) raw wool.

Once the decision has been made to enter into stockpiling operations of wool, numerous problems of timing, the rate of accumulation, and its effects on the markets will arise. At the close of the last war there was a heavy surplus of wool accumulated in the world, but heavy demand since then has practically removed these supplies from the markets, and the world is now dependent largely on the current clips of each year. The Advisory Committee should be able to offer the Munitions Board most helpful guidance on these problems as they arise.

An element of uncertainty is introduced into all planning for the Wool Textile Industry by the Trade Agreements program of the State Department. The facilities of the industry will remain intact only if the mills can meet competition from foreign goods. During and since the last war, the disparity between wages paid in this country and abroad increased greatly. A comparison of the wages paid here and in England shows the difference has increased from about 30 cents an hour in the 1930's to 95 cents an hour at the present time. Nevertheless the State Department has seen fit to reduce the tariff protection of the industry, first in 1938 and again in 1947, and it is expected that wool products will once more appear prominently in bargaining to be carried on late this year at Torquay, England. The national security implications of this tariff-reducing program of the State Department deserves the earnest and continuing consideration of the Munitions Board.

The Wool Industry Advisory Committee was formed 2 June 1949 to advise the Munitions Board in the development of features of the industrial mobilization plan related to wool, including those functions prescribed in Public Law 520 (the Stockpiling Act of 1946). The author of the above article, Mr. Kenneth W. Marriner, president of Winslow Bros. & Smith Co. of Boston, is chairman of the committee, and Lt. Col. F. H. Holmes, USAF, is liaison officer between the committee and the Board. The committee consists of the following additional representatives of industry:

Discuss Service Funds

That will be presented in the form of an amendment when we reach that portion of the bill. That makes a total of contract authority of $1,385,000,000.

"He also asked for $50,000,000 in cash, of which the major portion was to go for submarine activities.

"When the bill is in total, if the amendments are accepted by the membership that will be presented by the committee, it will resolve itself into a total of $14,255,000,000, cash and contract authority."

Attacks Sec. Johnson

Rep. Plumley (R-Vt.). "Mr. Chairman, during the hearings held before the Subcommittee on Appropriations for Armed Services I said:

"The effectiveness of the economies proposed by the Secretary of Defense Johnson are comparable to those accomplished by the man who cut his wife's throat to stop her nosebleed."

"I have not changed my mind, and subsequent events have corroborated my statements."

"The truth is that the proposals of the Secretary of Defense, made, I am afraid, for publicity purposes, in an undertaking to make an alleged saving of $25,000,000 by abandoning several hospitals, thereby involving an irretrievable loss in money, in readiness of the armed forces, and in services to be rendered to the veterans and dependents of servicemen, have had all the hot air let out of them and have been proven in fact to be no savings at all."

"I am sorry to say that this is the rule of thumb—that is, 'hog-wash'—to be applied to very many of the alleged savings propositions announced by the Secretary of Defense."

"For instance, his dictatorial impounding of $357,000,000 in funds specifically appropriated by Congress, duly authorized with practical unanimity of purpose and intended to be used in the construction of Navy and Air Force airplanes, evidences no savings. Neither does the $736,000,000 more, impounded unconstitutionally by the President on Johnson's recommendation, which funds were to raise the Air Force from 48 to 58 groups."

Quality vs. Quantity

Rep. Sikes (D-Fla.). "Actually, we are weaker than we think. I say this despite the fact that the Chief of Services testified without exception, that qualitatively our defenses are stronger than at any time since the war actually ended. Qualitatively we are stronger. Quantitatively there is a big gap in what we have and what we need for mobilization in case of a global war."

"The increasing gravity of world conditions is not news to Congress. The atomic bomb in Russia was exploded months ago. The loss of China and the gravity of Asiatic conditions was conceded months ago. The step-up in cold war by Russia was obvious months ago. Our committee asked many questions about the effect of these activities upon the request of funds by defense chiefs. Only when emphasis was added by General Eisenhower and Chairman Vinson did the defense chiefs publicly take cognizance of changed world conditions. I confess I am puzzled by the reasoning which has produced the conclusions submitted to us at this late date."

"Be that as it may, the committee endorses the recommendations of the people upon whose advice we must depend. We recommend $350,000,000 additional to the funds formerly agreed on. That amount sounds big—actually, it does not buy much because it is chiefly directed at high-priced planes."

"Two hundred millions additional will be provided for the Air Force. This will buy 77 new planes. It will modernize 228 primary trainers. It will convert 71 medium bombers of the B-29 type to tankers principally for refueling in air."

"For the additional $100,000,000 for naval aviation, we will be able to procure 95 new planes."

"Fifty millions of dollars is also provided for antisubmarine work, probably our greatest immediate need. Snorkel equipment and high submerged speeds of present-day submarines make our antisubmarine equipment largely obsolete. Hitler nearly choked off our life lines with a much smaller submarine fleet and a much less potent submarine fleet than the Russians now have."

Plane Shortages

"I said a moment ago that the committee had long realized that additional plane procurement would be necessary if our Air Force and naval aviation are to stay modern. Testimony revealed that within a very few years both services will have to depend increasingly upon second-line planes because there will not be sufficient new, modern planes coming off the assembly lines to replace planes that are dropping out and to keep abreast of world conditions. One billion three hundred and fifty millions originally recommended for Air Force plane procurement in 1951 would have purchased 1,333 planes. In order to maintain a 48-group modern Air Force plus 11 modern National Guard groups, 2,000 new planes yearly are required at a cost of $2,000,000,000. Thus, originally we were short 617 needed new planes. Under the adjusted program we will get 77 additional planes. That means we are still short 540 planes."

"The naval aviation picture is substantially similar. The original request for Navy planes was six hundred and thirty-three millions for 1951 with which to purchase 817 planes. To maintain present levels and to keep naval aviation modern, we will need 1,347 new planes yearly. To the 817 originally planned, 95 are now added for a total of 912 planes. The Navy is still short 435 planes, or one-third of its needs. But there is more to the Navy picture than appears on the surface. Navy planes are now based on approximately 60 per cent of the 1949 strength. Nineteen hundred and forty-nine is the postwar year which probably is the most nearly comparable in gravity to this one. Yet naval strength is held to 60 per cent of the estimated needs for that year and we are providing only two-thirds of the planes which would be required to maintain that 60-per cent level. This is a most disturbing situation."

Rep. Case (R-S.D.). "I want the Members to remember the fact that the amount frozen by the President, $735,754,000, is exactly the amount which the Congress on its own motion and initiative last year appropriated and said: 'Here are the funds for the Air Force. We, the Congress, have provided them. We want you to build up a 58-group Air Force. We want you to proceed with research and development, we want you to proceed with the aircraft procurement program.'

"That amount, $735,000,000, which the Congress on its own motion provided, was the exact amount later frozen and set aside by direction of the President."

End of Cedric Worth Case

All of the Navy officers who testified at hearings of a Navy court of inquiry which investigated the authorship of the "anonymous" B-36 document, have been cleared.

The board, headed by Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, found that Cedric Worth, admitted author of the document, and former Naval Reserve officer and special assistant to Under Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball, "incurred serious blame" in that he violated the trust inherent in his position. The charges he made in the document and repeated by Representative Van Zandt (R-Pa.), led to heated hearing by the House Armed Services Committee last Summer but were held to be without foundation.

Comdr. Thomas D. Davies, who was made an interested party during the inquiry, was one of those cleared by the report. The Court said, in an opinion regarding Davies, that he had "committed no offense and incurred no serious blame."

Four other officers, including Capt. John G. Crommelin, were also cleared by the Court, but with slightly different wording. Captain Crommelin, Capt. Leroy C. Simpler, Comdr. W. E. Sweeney, and Lt. Samuel P. Ingram, all Regular Navy officers, "committed no offense," the Court found, "and incurred no blame."

The findings, opinion and recommendation of the Court of Inquiry were approved by Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews.

Convened in August, the Court completed its hearings and deliberations in October of last year. Since that time, the report has been processed through various Naval bureaus and offices for information purposes.

In reporting their opinion regarding Mr. Worth, the Court recommended that "In view of the fact that (his) connection with the Navy Department in his capacity as Special Assistant to the Under Secretary of the Navy has been severed as the result of his conduct and in consideration of the further fact that the substance of the classified material appearing in his letter had previously been published in the press and periodicals, it is recommended that no further disciplinary action be taken with respect to Mr. Worth."

Secretary Matthews had instructed the Court members, Admiral Kinkaid, Vice Adm. Donald B. Beary and Rear Adm. Glenn B. Davis, to "inquire particularly" whether any officers or civilian employees of the Navy, other than Worth, had participated in, instigated, or had knowledge of the preparation of the document.

Hospital Situation

Despite Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson's assurance that the closing of five hospitals will not deprive military dependents of family medical care, Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) this week instructed the special hospital subcommittee headed by Representative L. Mendel Rivers (D-SC) to function in a "watchdog" status.

Although the Armed Services Committee, following a comprehensive investigation by the hospital subcommittee, had expressed the strong belief that the five military hospitals should be kept open, there will be no new attempt at this time to have the controversial order rescinded or modified.

There had been some discussion pertaining to the possibility of specific legislation regarding continuation in military service of the four Army hospitals and the Long Beach Naval Hospital in California. However, the fact that the President has authorized the Veterans Administration to accept Oliver General Hospital, Ga., and the Long Beach Naval Hospital would indicate that even if a bill were to pass Congress, it would face a Presidential veto.

Therefore, Chairman Vinson and his committee associates have decided not to press the issue further, but to keep a close and continuing watch on the military medical situation, particularly with regard to dependent care.

Replying this week to Chairman Vinson's request that he rescind or modify substantially the order for the hospital closings, Secretary Johnson said:

"The Department of Defense has re-examined its military hospital program in the light of the most current information brought to bear upon it from all sources and has concluded that the program should be carried out as announced."

Concerning the effect of the Department of Defense medical and hospital program, Secretary Johnson stated:

"(1) The program of jointly utilizing military medical facilities will be advanced;

"(2) The Surgeons General have stated that after the reduction in facilities have been achieved, the medical service of the military Departments concerned can still accomplish their assigned missions;

"(3) Sufficient facilities will continue to exist to extend medical care to dependent populations in those areas of greatest military concentration;

"(4) The Department of Defense will provide the same numbers of beds in military hospitals for use of veterans as had been planned prior to the development of this program;

"(5) Substantial numbers of military personnel and military physicians will be made available for assignment elsewhere within the military Departments, thus strengthening the medical forces in the field and afloat;

"(6) Substantial fiscal reductions will be realized;

"(7) The intern and residency programs are being reduced to reflect long-range medical Department planning and not because of the impact of any part of the hospital reduction program."

New Career Field

The Army this week introduced the Communications Career Field with publication of SR 650-1651—the second of four Signal Corps career fields and the 11th of the 31 total career fields to be introduced.

The Communications Career Field will have six job progression ladders: Teletypewriter Operation, Cryptographic Operation, Signal Message Operation, Telephone Operation, Field Communications Operation and Radio Operation.

The month of August has been fixed as the time period within which the MOS changes in individual records, classifications in the career field and reporting of authorized and actual strength are to be made.

Army Medical Depot

The Sixth Army Medical Depot, after an absence of six and a half years and brilliant achievements in wartime medical supply, has returned to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, its originating point, for assignment to Medical Field Service School, Brooke Army Medical Center. Transferred from St. Louis, Mo., the depot, which is the only one of its kind now in existence, will act as a demonstration unit to teach field supply techniques to enlisted and officer students from active and reserve Armed Forces installations. It is commanded by Maj. Arthur F. Maeser.

Col. Kimbrough to Speak

Col. James C. Kimbrough, Chief of Walter Reed General Hospital's Urological Section, will be a guest speaker at the 26th annual meeting of the American Urologic Association's Western Section at Yosemite Valley, Calif., on 10 May.

Army Mutual Aid

The Army Mutual Aid Association received 29 applications for membership during the past week, and paid the insurance benefits on account of the deaths of Col. Douglas Hall, and Col. Louis Farrell, USA-Ret.

Out-Patient Service

A long-felt need at Army Medical Center's Walter Reed General Hospital was filled 2 May with the opening of a modernized and spacious Out-Patient Service building.

Housed in a building formerly occupied by the WAC Detachment, the new Out-Patient Service will bring together under one roof all of the specialties and needs of the most up-to-date clinic.

Maj. Gen. Paul H. Streit, Commanding General of the Center, and his staff including Lt. Col. Philip W. Mallory, Chief of the Out-Patient Service, were hosts at a preview of the building on Monday, 1 May. The first patients treated in the new building entered on Tuesday morning, 2 May.

Parking facilities for the Service have been set aside on lots directly back of the building, with entrance on Georgia Avenue between Main Drive and Dahlia Streets.

The Army's Out-Patient Service in the Washington area was organized at the Munitions Building in 1921 and moved to the Army Medical Center in 1939, where it has remained until the present time.

In the new Out-Patient Service, all specialist services will be combined in one building. The patients' records in the Service are available for the hospital in case the individual becomes hospitalized, with hospital facilities available for any diagnostic or therapeutic treatment too formidable for the clinic.

In remodeling the building, the convenience of the patient and efficiency of operation were prime objectives. The centrally located admission desk, logically arranged specialty sections, the appointment system and air conditioning are but a few of the special features set up for the convenience and comfort of the patient.

Colonel Is Convicted

An Army court-martial at Ft. Myer, Va., this week found Col. Ralph C. Tilley guilty of bigamy and harboring an alien. A veteran of 32 years' Army service, he was sentenced to serve two years at hard labor and to be dishonorably discharged. The sentence of the court is subject to review by higher authorities.

Colonel Tilley, a Reserve officer and member of the Adjutant General's Department, entered the Army as an enlisted man in 1918, later served as a field clerk and was made a warrant officer in 1926. He went on active duty as a Reserve officer prior to Pearl Harbor and advanced through the ranks to the grade of colonel.

He was convicted of taking an Italian wife without having obtained a divorce from his American wife and of bringing the Italian woman into the United States.

Army Register Out

The Official Army Register for 1950, which this year contains the promotion list standings of all Regular officers, is now available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

The cost is $3.25. However, officers who have saved the promotion lists as published in recent issues of THE JOURNAL, may feel that purchase of the massive 1410-page volume now is not vital.

Printed as a supplementary publication is an Officers' Honorary Retired List, which costs 5 cents.

Ordnance Conference

More than 40 of the country's leading authorities on smokeless powder and high explosives, representing America's top industrial companies and the Army, Navy, and Air Force, met at the Joliet, Ill., Arsenal 2 May, for a two-day conference sponsored by the Powder and Explosives Committee, American Ordnance Association.

Conferees discussed reports on ways and means for increasing industrial cooperation in solving Ordnance defense problems, and coordinating industrial resources so that maximum production can be quickly obtained in emergency.

Brig. Gen. Joel G. Holmes, Field Director of Ammunition plants, explained the function of the Field Directors Office in the over-all defense program. Henry N. Marsh of Hercules Powder company and John M. Skilling of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & company, the committee's co-chairmen, heard reports of specific participation projects and conduct panel discussions on matters of joint interest to industry and the national defense establishment.

Among the industrialists attending were R. C. Burton, Tennessee Eastman Corporation, J. E. Caskey, Naugatuck Chemical Company, L. B. Fraser, Fraser-Brace Engineering Company, Dr. C. R. McCullough, Monsanto Chemical Company, Dr. Fred Olsen, N. A. Hamilton, J. J. O'Neill, Olin Industries, Dr. W. O. Snelling, Trojan Powder Company, C. Y. Thomas, Spencer Chemical Company, C. E. Watts, Commercial Solvents Corporation, Henry N. Marsh and John T. Moore, Hercules Powder Company, John M. Skilling, E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, C. H. Carter and John Jeffries, Atlas Powder Company, W. C. Lothrop, Arthur D. Little, Inc., S. F. Spangler, Chemical Construction Company.

General Burton O. Lewis represented the American Ordnance Association. Representing the Army Ordnance Department were Col. Merl H. Davis, W. F. Stevenson, Dr. R. O. Bengis, John Washnock, Harry La-Tourette, Lt. Col. H. G. Davison, J. D. Hopper, C. S. Davis, C. L. Mader, C. F. Ritzer and G. H. Mitchell, jr. The Navy Bureau of Ordnance was represented by Comdr. J. H. Brandt, F. F. Dick and F. Z. Hough. Col. Fairfax and W. Savage of Air Force attended. Joliet Arsenal representatives will be Lt. Col. R. C. Costabile, Commanding Officer, M. W. Hazen, George Doyle, J. E. Whitely and Robert Overall.

Army Pay Action

Army finance officers now are prepared to place into effect a Comptroller General's decision of 3 March, which provides that changes in quarters and subsistence allowances for members of the Armed Forces no longer will affect saved pay under the Career Compensation Act of 1949.

Prior to the Comptroller General's decision, finance officers ruled that saved pay was affected by changes in quarters and subsistence allowances. Saved pay, that pay a soldier received under the old pay act above that which he would have received under the new act, was withheld under this interpretation, and the soldier reverted to the new pay act when he changed stations and began drawing quarters and subsistence allowances. Under the new ruling, he will draw both his saved pay and the quarters and subsistence allowances.

Following is the procedure which will be used in implementing the new plan:

(1) The member whose saved pay status and family allowance were terminated by reason of quarters or subsistence status change only may make a request for reinstatement of his saved pay status and submit it to his Personnel Officer together with a waiver from the dependent consenting to have the adjusted payments made to the member.

(2) The Personnel Officer will review and verify this request with the records available in the personnel office, after which he will submit it to the Disbursing Officer.

(3) The Disbursing Officer will review the request for adjustment of pay. If sufficient information is available on the current Military Pay Record, recomputation and adjustment will be made immediately. Where sufficient information is not on hand and information is required for the period prior to 1 Jan., 1950, a request for a copy of the Military Pay Record will be forwarded to the Military Pay Division, Army Finance Center, St. Louis, Missouri.

(4) The Army Finance Center will make a photostatic copy of the Military Pay Record and return it to the requesting Disbursing Officer.

(5) The Disbursing Officer then will recompute the account and determine if the member is entitled to saved pay under the Career Compensation Act of 1949. If so, the account will be adjusted accordingly and any additional payment found due will be paid, and family allowance will be reinstated for a wife or child, or for a dependent parent when there is no wife or child.

Where the service member is not able to obtain a waiver for family allowance payments from the appropriate dependents for the period the service person was paid under the Career Compensation Act of 1949, and the recomputation indicates that family allowance payments should be reinstated, the family allowance payments will be reinstated as of the first of the month following the month the family allowance payment was discontinued. Amounts overpaid to the member will be charged against him on his Military Pay Record and collected in accordance with current procedures.

When better automobiles are built
Buick will build them

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, ABC Network, every Monday evening.

COME look for a moment beyond the lines and standout styling that make Buick fashion leader of our 1950 highways.

Come pry into the solid substance of the chassis—and match, if you can, the array of sturdy features found here.

Take a look at the deep-silled, non-weaving frame, starting point of Buick solidity. Every Buick has that—plus the extra firmness of drive through a rigid torque-tube.

Take a look at the springs, which are soft gentle coils on both front wheels and rear. Every Buick has that—plus the soft cushioning of low-pressure tires and Safety-Ride rims that mean better road stability.

Take a look at power—at the words "valve-in-head straight-eight" stenciled on the rocker-arm cover.

Every Buick employs this more efficient design principle—every Buick is a straight-eight—every Buick has higher compression and still greater power than last year.

Take a look at wheelbase—important to level-striding road comfort—and every Buick has ample inches there, plus a new over-all compactness that makes parking, garaging and handling easier.

And take a look at the drive—the method of transmitting power.

On every Buick you can have Dynaflow Drive,* where oil does it all—eliminating the clutch-pedal, the usual hand-shifting, and mechanical shifting of gears as well.

Yes, the style and room and comfort of these 1950 Buick beauties have good solid rootstock behind them...

With ruggedness, sound engineering, and time-proved principles that put durability into your purchase.

Go taste of these things for yourself, through a good long trial run on the road—and we think you'll leave a signed order with your Buick dealer.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

"Mo" Officers Lose Numbers

Three former officers of the battleship Missouri have been set back on Navy promotion lists as a result of General Courts Martial proceedings which arose out of the grounding of the big vessel in the Chesapeake Bay last January.

Capt. William D. Brown, commanding officer of the dreadnaught at the time of the accident, was reduced 250 numbers on the promotion list. He had accepted "full responsibility" for the grounding.

Comdr. John R. Millett, former operations officer of the Missouri, was reduced 100 numbers, and Lt. Comdr. Frank G. Morris, jr., was reduced 350 numbers.

Captain Brown had previously been within 400 numbers of the top of his grade and would probably have come up for promotion either this fall or next year. Both Captain Brown and Commander Millett are graduates of the Naval Academy. Commander Morris enlisted in the Navy in 1940 and was commissioned later that year.

Separate courts for each of the three officers found Captain Brown guilty on two charges of negligence and one of neglect of duty; Commander Millett on a charge of negligence and one of neglect of duty; and Commander Morris on a charge of culpable inefficiency and neglect of duty.

Medical Journal Editor

On 15 May Capt. F. W. Farrar, MC, USN, will relieve Capt. J. L. Schwartz, MC, USN, as Director of the Publications Division, Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, and as editor of the Armed Forces Medical Journal.

Lockheed Neptunes Assigned

A nine plane squadron of Lockheed P2V-3 Neptunes, under command of Comdr. Edward W. Bridewell, USN, presently based at the Whidbey Island, Wash., Naval Air Station will report early this month to Rear Adm. Marshall R. Greer, USN, Commander, Fleet Air Wing 2, Barber's Point, T. H.

The Neptunes will be used to strengthen defense forces in the Hawaiian Islands and are the first craft of this type to be based in this area. Equipped with the latest anti-submarine equipment, the Neptune is described as the Navy's most modern operational aircraft designed to detect and destroy the snorkel-type submarine.

Marine Uniform Approved

The Secretary of the Navy has approved the wearing of a tropical worsted summer service uniform as an optional purchase item by Marine enlisted men, Marine Corps Headquarters announced this week.

The announcement confirmed a report appearing in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL on 8 April.

The new attire consists of a tropical worsted shirt with Marine bronze collar ornaments and chevrons, trousers, and garrison cap or frame cap with tropical worsted cover. It is reported to cost about $15. There is no khaki coat or jacket designed to be worn with the uniform.

Marine Headquarters said that the purpose of the new uniform "is for wear in offices and liberty only." Trousers, shirts, garrison caps and cap covers will be styled on a similar pattern to other enlisted men's comparable items.

Observes Anniversary

Comdr. Delwyn Hyatt, USN (Ret.), is celebrating the completion of his first year as head of the Mathematics Department of the Sullivan School in Washington, D. C.

Commander Hyatt began his teaching career with a two-year tour in the Math Department at the U. S. Naval Academy in 1928, returning for two tours totaling seven years in the Navigation Department. Subsequently he served as head of the Department of Seamanship and Navigation at the Merchant Marine Academy. After his re-retirement in 1946 he spent three years as assistant professor of mathematics at Champlain College, Plattsburg, N. Y., before taking over the math department at the Sullivan School.

Particularly gratifying to Commander Hyatt are the results of the West Point Presidential exams showing that Sullivan students took the top eight and 24 out of the 41 appointments.

Addresses Naval Engineers

In a forthright evaluation of the perils confronting the world through the cold war, the spread of Communism and the creation of such formidable weapons as the H-bomb, Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, Chairman of the Board of the Radio Corporation of America, declared 28 April that if the cold war remains in deep freeze for the next decade, we may never see another world war.

Addressing the American Society of Naval Engineers, he offered six ways to wage peace. The first way, he said, was "to make aggression on a global scale an act of suicide for the aggressor nation." President Truman, he added, was unerringly correct in ordering the vast machinery of research to be set in motion for the production of the H-bomb.

"The world crisis must be met on many fronts," he said "There are no 'pink pills' for peace. There is no easy or speedy road to its attainment. It is a long, hard journey."

Line officers undergoing flight training, who were not selected for retention, will be transferred to Naval Reserve and continued on active duty until the completion of their flight training. Upon completion of such training, they will be released from active duty and ordered home.

All other officers who requested retention but were not selected, will be transferred to the Naval Reserve and continued on active duty until 1 June 1951 "to extent permitted by budgetary limitations," the Navy said, provided the officers concerned request continuation. Requests should be submitted promptly to arrive in BuPers prior to 1 June this year, the Navy said. Any continuation beyond 1 June 1951 will be subject to appropriation and personnel ceilings.

Officers who were eligible for consideration by the boards, but who did not apply for retention in the Regular service as permanent officers, will be transferred to the Naval Reserve on the third anniversary of acceptance of their commissions, or on 30 June 1950, "whichever date is earlier," the Navy said. They will then be released from active duty and ordered home.

Waves and Nurses Uniforms

Gold sleeve stripes and corps devices will replace the present light blue stripes and devices on uniforms of women officers of the Navy (WAVES), and members of the Navy Nurse Corps will change from double to single-breasted uniforms, under a new uniform directive approved by Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Matthews.

The changes, which will put all women officers of the Navy in similar dark blue uniforms, are optional at present and become mandatory on 1 July, 1952.

The style of the WAVES officers' uniforms is unchanged, remaining the single-breasted design. Previously Navy Nurses were in dark blue double-breasted uniforms with gold stripes, while the WAVES were wearing navy blue, a lighter shade, single-breasted uniform with light blue stripes.

Completely eliminated will be the coat collar device presently prescribed for WAVES officers. These will not be worn on the dark blue uniform and will be abolished on 1 July, 1952.

The articles of uniform of the dark blue shade are optional for wear immediately, and are mandatory on 1 July, 1952, with the exception of the navy blue overcoat. Overcoats of this shade may be worn by persons now possessing these garments until 1 July, 1955. With the exception of the overcoat, the two shades of blue shall not be mixed, however.

Also to bring the uniforms of women officers in closer accord with those of male officers, their raincoats and overcoats will have the shoulder straps recently approved for male officers' raincoats. To accomplish the addition of shoulder straps on women officers' raincoats, the design will be changed from the raglan sleeve to the set-in sleeve type.

As approved for male officers, women officers will wear metal rank insignia on the shoulder straps beginning 1 July, 1952. Concurrently, braid sleeve stripes on overcoats will be removed and abolished.

Extend Selective Service

Legislation to extend the Selective Service Act, urged by the President, Secretary of Defense and military leaders, this week appeared headed for rapid Congressional approval as the House Armed Services Committee voted unanimously, 31-0, to report the measure favorably.

The committee vote marked reaction to recent international developments, including the shooting down of the Navy patrol plane over the Baltic Sea and, taken with Capitol Hill support for increased defense funds, reflects the determination to keep the Nation prepared for any emergency.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee, following hearings in January, had not been enthusiastic over the Selective Service extension. However, he declared that "I have become disturbed by what has taken place since our hearings three months ago."

Fire More Civilians

The Navy on 3 May announced a total cutback of 1,200 civilian billets at six Naval Air Stations and the Naval Aircraft Factory, Philadelphia, Pa.

Reduction, the announcement said, "is being effected to bring employment levels into line with planned operations for the remainder of the fiscal year."

"What Makes It Good for Me?"

Charley, who owns a drug store, wants to know why he should care about a profit for the telephone company

The Scene — A drug store in any one of thousands of cities and towns in the U.S.A.

The Time — Lunch time. A man from the telephone company has dropped in. He's chatting with his friend Charley, who owns the store.

CHARLEY: "What d'ya mean—it's good for me when the telephone company makes a profit? You give me good service and all that but why should I care whether you make money or not? I'm having my own troubles, trying to put in a bigger soda fountain."

AL: "What d'ya mean, 'trying'? Can't you just up and do it?"

CHARLEY: "I've got to find me a partner with some capital. These things cost money."

AL: "Sure they do! It's the same with us at the telephone company. To keep on giving you good service, and put in telephones for people who want them, we must have a lot more central office equipment and cable and other things. And to buy it, we have to get money from our stockholders. They expect a profit—just like your partner would."

CHARLEY: "I guess you're right. Nobody would invest his money here unless I could earn him a profit."

AL: "And here's something else, Charley. Those girls there at the far end of the fountain. They're telephone girls. They're spending a part of their wages with you—putting money into your till to help you make a profit. Thousands of dollars of telephone payroll money are spent right in this town, every week."

ADEQUATE RATES AND EARNINGS for the telephone company have a far-reaching effect. For only a strong and healthy telephone company can pay good wages, contribute to the prosperity of the community and provide an improving service for telephone users. Only through adequate rates and earnings can the telephone company—like Al's friend Charley in the drug store—attract the new capital that is needed to carry on the business.

It's the dollars from investors—from hundreds of thousands of everyday people—that build, improve and expand the best telephone service in the world for you to use at small cost.

AF Nurse, WMS Promotions

The Air Force this week announced plans to convene a selection board to recommend Nurses and Women's Medical Specialists for temporary promotion to major. The best qualified method of selection will be utilized.

Eligible for temporary promotion will be all permanent grade captains with date of rank in that grade prior to 1 July 1945 either under temporary or permanent appointment, whichever is earlier.

Also eligible are all non-regulars whose dates of rank in the grade of captain are prior to 1 July 1945.

The Air Force said that no promotions will be accomplished to the grade of captain for Nurses and Women's Medical Specialists due to "budgetary limitations" and current strength of such personnel.

Purchase Amphibian Planes

Additional SA-16 amphibian aircraft have been ordered by USAF for Air Rescue Service. When delivery is made, it will bring to 110 the number of SA-16s assigned to ARS.

Designed to operate in four and one half foot waves, the SA-16 can also be equipped with two 1,000 pound-thrust RATO units, one on each side of the fuselage, for rough water takeoff. It cruises at 170 miles per hour, with a top speed of more than 250 mph, and can carry either 12 litter patients or 10 passengers in addition to a crew of six.

Tenth Air Force

Brig. Gen. Harry A. Johnson, USAF, has been named by the Air Force to succeed Maj. Gen. Paul L. Williams as Commanding General of the Tenth Air Force, with Headquarters at Selfridge AFB, Mich. General Williams retired 30 April.

A change in personnel promoted Col. Cecil E. Henry to the position of vice Commander, and Col. Richard M. Wightman became the assistant vice commander.

Hits Press Releases

Representative Carl Hinshaw (R-Calif) characterized as a "dishonest hoax" the press releases issued last month by the Department of Defense summarizing the contracts for new aircraft made during fiscal year 1950 by Air Force and Navy.

In an extension of his remarks in the Appendix of the Congressional Record, Mr. Hinshaw quoted a daily newspaper article based on press releases, and said: "Mr. Speaker, the Defense Department, the Air Force and Navy, are not issuing new plane contracts and did not do so yesterday. These articles constitute a cruel hoax upon the aircraft workers and all persons connected with the aircraft industry, as it leads them to believe that new planes are being ordered. As a matter of fact, these planes were ordered last October and November pursuant to appropriations made last year for plane purchases. Nearly all of these contracts were announced in the press at the time so that this is only a rehash of what was published 5 months and more ago."

"In consequence of reading these articles today in the newspapers, unemployed aircraft workers are flocking into their union headquarters and into aircraft plants looking for their old jobs. Some of them have made contracts for the purchase of homes in the expectation of getting work or having assurances of continued work. Others have contracted for other types of purchases on the strength of these articles."

"This constitutes a dishonest hoax upon the aircraft workers of the United States, and news releases like this should not be permitted to emanate from the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Members of Congress are not fooled by these releases because they understand the terms used, but aircraft workers and the local merchants and others do not understand. They think that new orders are just now being placed."

"Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, the numbers of planes stated in these releases fool the people because the ordinary citizen is led to believe that all the planes listed are combat types, whereas many planes in the totals are trainers or transports."

Orientation Conference

The Air Force conducted a two-day orientation conference at Air Materiel Command Headquarters, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, on 4 and 5 May for executives of 175 American corporations.

Industrial leaders who attended the conference are members of the National Security Industrial Association.

One of the highlights of the conference was a reception and dinner at the Officers' Club on the evening of 4 May. Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert was the guest of honor and shared the speakers' stand with Mr. James R. MacDonald, President of the National Security Industrial Association and First Vice-president of the General Cable Corporation, and Lt. Gen. B. W. Chidlaw, Commanding General of the Air Materiel Command.

GIANT ALL-PURPOSE AIRLIFT!

C-124—mammoth transport designed by Douglas—is the most versatile and flexible cargo and troop carrier in the air today.

Sixty-five of these sky giants are in production for the Air Force, with deliveries scheduled soon to Supply Squadrons of the Strategic Air Command.

Each plane is able to carry anything up to 50,000 pounds—diversified general cargo, 200 troops, or 94% of all military vehicles, fully assembled. This means that only a C-124 fleet can transport by air an entire standard infantry division, including all the millions of pounds of airlift required for its continued equipment and support. The C-124 is also self-sufficient for rapid loading and unloading.

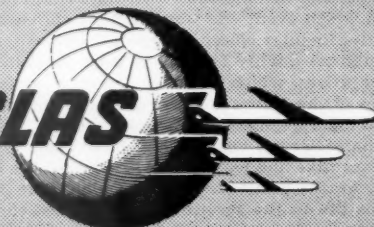

Furthermore, propeller-turbine engines can be readily installed in the current C-124 design, making possible more payload, longer range and greater speed.

SATURDAY, 6 MAY 1950

"The international situation is so clearly indicated as being hazardous that we cannot afford to jeopardize our defenses or the security of our people."—REPRESENTATIVE HARRY R. SHEPPARD (D-CALIF.), IN PRESENTING APPROPRIATION BILL TO CONGRESS.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Early construction of adequate Government quarters for commissioned and enlisted personnel at all permanent stations, supplemented by satisfactory legislation to encourage private building of dwelling units near Service establishments.
2. Improved retirement pay for wounded and disabled personnel.
3. Continuance and extension of medical and dental care for families of Service personnel; provision for education at Government expense of children of Service personnel on duty at stations where suitable free schools are not available; and survivor benefits for dependents.
4. Restoration of military exemptions from Federal income tax, broadened to exclude all retired pay from taxation.
5. Early attainment and continued maintenance of a fully-manned 70-group Air Force.
6. Prompt construction of a radar fence and air warning net to cover all avenues of hostile air approach.
7. Rapid expansion of our submarine fleet and accelerated development of anti-submarine vessels and equipment, with continued experimentation and construction of new Naval types.
8. Organization and training of a balanced Mobile Ground Force, including air-borne and amphibious troops, of sufficient strength and ready, with complete and modern equipment, for immediate action in an emergency.
9. Development and improvement of the organization and training of the National Guard, Organized Reserves and other civilian components of the Armed Forces, with appropriate training facilities, and restoration of inactive training pay for all elements.
10. Continued scientific research and development in all new and unconventional devices and methods of warfare backed by industry and labor kept constantly ready and trained through production and educational orders.
11. Close supervision and constant restudy of Service promotion and elimination policies and procedures to insure the prevention or prompt correction of injustices and inequities.

SUPPORTERS of National Defense are gratified that the Administration and the Congress are now taking steps to remedy the threat to our security that was implicit in the scaled-down military budget for 1951. It has been evident for months that the funds requested in the estimates submitted to the Congress for the fiscal year 1951 were insufficient to maintain our Military Establishment at its required minimum strength and effectiveness in light of world conditions. The proposed budget called for fewer men in the Services, fewer warships at sea, and fewer planes in the air. At the same time the international situation became much more tense. There was never a time since the German surrender when a strong military force was more essential to the maintenance of peace than at present. General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, among others, brought the inadequacy of our defenses to the attention of the public and the Congress. Subsequently, the Joint Chiefs of Staff confirmed the views of General Eisenhower, particularly as to the necessity for greater aircraft procurement. Based on this reevaluation and on the worsening international situation, Secretary of Defense Johnson, with the support of the President, has asked Congress to provide additional defense funds. It now appears probable that at least $350 million will be added to the military appropriations, and the extension of Selective Service for two more years is again a live issue. While the proposed increase in funds is moderate, it will go far toward remedying the inadequacies that would have resulted from the economies practiced in the 1951 budget and further aggravated by the House Committee reductions.

MEMBERS of the House Armed Services subcommittee have rendered a public service in rewriting the Army Reorganization Bill. As originally introduced, at the request of the Department of the Army, the measure would have given to the Secretary of the Army almost unlimited authority to reorganize the Department at will, to abolish or consolidate branches of the Army, and to create new ones without specific Congressional approval. The Secretary also would have been authorized to assign officers to duty in Washington and to service on the General Staff, with no limitation as to numbers or duration of assignments. It was contended by the Department that it was necessary to vest this power in the Secretary to provide the flexibility essential to successful military operations. The committee wisely decided that such authority was necessary only in time of war or national emergency. Furthermore, it very properly placed a peacetime limit on the number of officers assigned to the Department of the Army and to the General Staff, with statutory provision for rotation of duty, to be waived only under extraordinary circumstances. Other revisions require careful consideration of professional and technical qualifications of officers assigned to specialized duties and branches. In its present form the bill represents an improvement over the legislation as originally proposed and should be speedily enacted into law.

THE widow of a distinguished officer, who was on active duty for more than 40 years, with service dating from the War with Spain, writes that she is receiving from the Government a pension of only $48 per month. This amount is less than that paid by many of the states, with Federal assistance, to elderly impoverished individuals. If her husband had been a veteran of World Wars I or II, and not of the War with Spain or the Philippine Insurrection, her pension would have been only $42 per month, unless her husband's death had been due to service-connected disability, in which event she would have been entitled to $75 per month. However, the widow of a Regular officer, retired for age or service, who was not a veteran of any war, could not qualify for any pension. Legislation is now pending in the House of Representatives, which, if enacted, would make it possible to make more adequate provision in the future for surviving dependents of deceased Service personnel. The proposed measure, however, does not attempt to remedy the serious financial situation which many Service widows now face. Their plight merits the serious consideration of the executive and legislative branches of the Government. It is a remarkable commentary on the gratitude of our republic that the widow of a career soldier, who devoted his life to the service of his country, should receive less pension than many an elderly survivor of a person with no military service receives on the public rolls.

Letters to the Editor

Letters expressing individual views and intended for publication should be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith. If the writer desires to omit his name when the letter is published, he should so state. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL may find it necessary to use only extracts from longer letters so that more viewpoints may be represented.

Evidence of Service

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

It has come to the notice of the undersigned that the Veterans Administration and other agencies such as states paying veterans' bonuses, etc., require evidence of war service in the form of the standard certificate of service delivered to military personnel upon separation from the service. This requirement has operated to deprive military personnel who have continued to serve without interruption of such benefits as they might be otherwise eligible for, due simply to the lack of such a certificate.

A suggested remedy is the issuance of certificates of service covering the period 7 Dec. 1941 to the date that hostilities were officially declared closed and after which no war service accrued, to all personnel still in service who have not otherwise been furnished such a certificate. It is believed that this can be accomplished locally by administrative officers having custody of personnel records.

Such an action will afford Regular Army personnel and those Reservists who have stayed on the job without interruption the same benefits as those who sought separation from military service and have since re-entered.

Elvyn A. Robb,
Lt. Col., QMC.

Relative Rank

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

For some time the Army has waited vainly for a directive which would correct the inequities of continuing in peacetime the temporary relative rank attained by officers during the war. No solution appears in sight. A reasonably satisfactory solution of this problem would be furnished by publication of the following brief directive:

"1. All temporary appointments of officers in the AUS under the Act of 9 September 1940 are revoked, effective 1 July 1950.

"2. Officers serving on active duty on 1 July 1950 in grades in which they do not hold permanent appointments are reappointed on that date in such temporary grades under provisions of Section 515 of the Officers' Personnel Act of 1947.

"3. Officers on inactive status who hold only AUS commissions may be tendered ORC commissions in present grades if they apply prior to 1 July 1950.

"4. As a continuing policy, each temporary appointment of an officer under Section 515 of the Officers' Personnel Act of 1947 will hereafter be revoked (1) upon the day the officer receives a permanent promotion or appointment to the same grade, or (2) the earliest date upon which he would have received such permanent promotion if he had not failed of selection, therefore by a competent selection Board."

Concerned

Housing and Retired Pay

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Your program for the Regular and Reserve officers for housing, retired pay, etc., is really the backbone of such efforts, and truly is getting and maintaining a very fine way of life for such of us who may, we hope, be only temporarily down on our luck. Certainly the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL keeps us well posted and believe me that's nine-tenths of the game.

Bacon Brings Home Bees

Bees lit on a B-29 and came out second best.

It happened at Kelly AFB when a swarm of highflying bees settled on the wing of a huge B-29, scattering workmen in all directions.

M. T. Bacon, a flight test mechanic, working nearby had no fear—he's an apiarist (a bee keeper, according to Webster).

World Leader in JETS

The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. is the world's largest producer of jet aircraft. Lockheed's five-year continuous production of practical jet airplanes almost equals the total output of all other U.S. manufacturers combined. This mass-production leadership began with the F-80 Shooting Star, America's first operational jet airplane. Like other Lockheed jets (the T-33 two-place jet trainer and the new F-94 interceptor), it is noted for its speed, versatility and strength. Carrying on this tradition is the new rugged, twin-engine F-90 Jet Penetration Fighter. This broad experience in practical jets is invaluable in the Lockheed laboratories where the designs of the future are taking shape today.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Budget Bureau Economy Proposal—In the light of the disclosure that the Bureau of the Budget is questioning the use of appropriated funds for construction of such key morale facilities as theaters, bowling alleys and clubs, the section on Welfare in the semi-annual report of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson is of particular significance. Secretary Johnson emphasizes to President Truman that the major purpose of the welfare programs is to maintain high morale and declares that "it has long been recognized that a high state of morale is a prerequisite to success in combat."

Secretary Johnson says that "fluctuations in morale are directly related to human relations activities within the Armed Forces." With specific regard to the facilities mentioned by the Bureau of the Budget as being of doubtful need for public funds, Secretary Johnson maintains: "In general, reasonably adequate recreation programs, both in the zone of the interior and in overseas commands, are being conducted to promote the general physical, mental and moral well-being of military personnel. The major activities comprising this activity," he reports, "are motion pictures, exchanges, athletics, clubs, libraries, shows, hobby crafts and radio entertainment. The success of this program," the Defense Secretary concludes, "manifests itself by the high reenlistment rate, improved public relations and improved trends in troop attitude surveys."

On the basis of Secretary Johnson's strong support for welfare and morale activities, it is to be assumed that he will inform the Bureau of the Budget that continued allocation of funds for construction of recreational facilities is urgently needed by the Armed Forces.

Apparently, as part of the general attack on the Army and Air Force Exchanges and the Navy Sales Store, the House Ways and Means Committee this week agreed to amend its general tax bill so as to provide that such Service agencies "shall be subject to retail excise taxes and also to occupational taxes."

Credit for Academy Service—On 9 Feb. 1950, Representative Carl Vinson (D-Ga), chairman of the House Committee on Armed Services, introduced a bill to amend the pay act by authorizing academy service to be included in computing pay and longevity. On 10 Feb. the Committee asked the Department of Defense for a report on the bill. To date the Department has not submitted a report. However, Chairman Vinson told THE JOURNAL this week that he is convinced of the merit of his bill and intends to bring it up before the committee "as soon as possible."

The bill would "equalize credits for service in the Armed Forces for pay and longevity purposes" by amending the Career Compensation Act of 1949 so as to include the words "cadet, midshipman, aviation cadet, flying cadet" in section 102 where the term "member" is defined and in section 202 where service for which members may be credited is listed.

This proposal has been brought before Congress a number of times, but the committee members have not been enthusiastic about it. Now, however, that reserve and National Guard personnel get full pay credit for all inactive as well as active duty, it appears that the full-time attendance at the service academies is about the only type of service not credited for pay purposes and that the attitude of Congress has changed on the subject.

Benefits of Defense Dispute—Despite widespread fears, the recent bitter inter-service dispute has not led to serious injury to unification and the defense establishment, according to a distinguished military correspondent, who has declared that "there is an impression that unification actually has made headway by reason of the fight."

Mr. Mark Watson, Pulitzer Prize winner of the Baltimore Sun, writing in the current issue of Military Affairs, says that "if the 1949 hurricanes of conflicting inter-service viewpoints reached a surprising violence, they were succeeded by a welcome calm which promises to last until something else goes wrong."

Mr. Watson, a keen student of American military affairs, maintains that at some future time "there will be another gale," but he emphasizes that there should be, "for in no other way is the air cleared of fog. When American processes, military or civilian, move too long without disagreement, they need a shaking up," he says.

With regard to the "angriest interservice fight which Capitol Hill has seen since the Billy Mitchell days," Mr. Watson observes: "It would have been pleasanter to have the true unification spirit come about in the Services by suasion and education, but there is an impression that unification actually has made headway by reason of the fight—through exhaustion of the opposition, and by general acceptance of what previously had been in doubt. Perhaps a fight in time saves nine."

Adm. Kendall to Remain I. G.—Rear Adm. H. S. Kendall, who reported for duty as the Navy Inspector General in February of this year, will probably be retained in that position contrary to previous plans, THE JOURNAL learned this week. The Navy had announced that Vice Adm. John W. Reeves, who retired on 1 May as Chief of Naval Air Training, would take over the Inspector General's department with an enlarged scope of operations.

Admiral Reeves, however, was reported this week to have accepted a position as general manager of the Los Angeles International Airport, at a salary of $15,000 a year. He was to have been recalled to active duty for about one year to head the enlarged I. G. office, and to take over responsibility for surveys and inspections of the Navy's shore establishment and shore-based fleet activities. New, additional duties were assigned to the Inspector General by Navy Secretary Matthews "in order to effect all possible economies in the expenditure of manpower and funds."

Admiral Kendall, a 1917 graduate of the Naval Academy, was appointed Navy Inspector General on 2 March. Immediately prior to that assignment, he had been on duty with the Shore Establishment Survey Board which was responsible for recommending economy measures at Navy bases.

Like Admiral Reeves, Admiral Kendall is a Naval aviator. During World War II he served as Commander of Aircraft at Guadalcanal as Commander of Fleet Air Wing 1, in the Pacific, and as Commander of Aircraft at Guadalcanal. In 1944, he returned to the United States as Chief of the Air Technical Training Command, and later returned to sea to command Carrier Division 24. Since the end of the war, he has served as Commander, Fleet Air Western Pacific, and Commander, Fleet Air, Quonset Point, R. I.

Disability Retirements—Military personnel retired for disability prior to last October have begun to send to the Services their choices as to method of receiving retirement payments, in accordance with the Career Compensation Act and the Presidential Executive Order issued last week. Several thousand letters have been sent to retired personnel notifying them of their rights and benefits under the new law and requesting them to choose one of the available options.

These are to continue to receive disability retirement pay under the old law, which is 75 per cent of active duty pay, all tax-free, or to be paid under the new law in accordance with percentage of disability, or under a combination of disability and length-of-service pay, only that part represented by percentage of disability being tax exempt.

In addition those with relatively short service or less than 30 per cent disability are given the option of continuing to receive retired pay based on the old schedules or severance pay under the new law. Of the several hundred replies thus far received nearly all requested payment under the new law. In these cases the increased compensation to be paid will be retroactive to 1 Oct. 1949. Letters notifying retired personnel of their status under the new law and Executive Orders have been sent to all those retired for disability prior to last October, whose cases have been reviewed by appropriate medical boards to determine percentage of disability at time of retirement. Nearly half of the cases of those affected have been reviewed.

Approximately 30,000 retired members of the Army, both Regular and non-Regular, come under the provisions of the new law relating to payments to those retired for disability prior to the enactment of the Pay Act. Of these the cases of about 15,000 have been examined by medical boards and the compensation to which each is entitled under the old and the new law determined.

Within 24 hours after the issuance of the appropriate Executive Order last week The Adjutant General of the Army sent letters to 11,722 retired personnel, giving them complete information as to the amounts each could expect to receive under any of the available options. To date The Adjutant General has received 250 replies, most of them requesting that payment be made under the new schedules. Each case of a Regular member will involve the issuance of a special order, with notification of the Finance Department before increased payments can be made. In cases of non-Regular personnel certification will be made to the Veterans Administration which will continue to pay retired non-Regulars of the Army and Air Force until 1 July 1950.

In a number of cases retired members have objected to the disability rating assigned by the medical board, pointing to the fact that the Veterans Administration assigned a higher percentage of disability. In each case, upon written application, the medical records will be re-examined to determine whether a re-evaluation is warranted.

Under the law the determination of percentage of disability must be made as of the date of retirement, in accordance with available clinical and retirement records. It is probable that in many cases the disability became more severe subsequent to retirement, which would account for a higher disability rating by the Veterans Administration. In the review of cases by the medical boards the Services did not follow a uniform order of priority. The Army and Air Force gave priority to those who had requested information as to their status, in the order of receipt of applications. The Navy reviewed the cases in accordance with the age of those affected, irrespective of the receipt of applications, with the cases of the oldest members being considered first.

Thus far the Navy has passed on the cases of about 3,500 Naval officers and 1,500 Marines. This constitutes about one-third of those eligible for consideration under the law.

Approximately 8,500 members of the Air Force, retired for disability prior to last October, are affected by the applicable section of the new law. Of these 3,644 applied for information as to their status. Air Force medical boards have completed action on the cases of 3,209 applicants and have notified 1,500 of their benefits under the law.

In the event no election is made by an individual affected he will continue to receive the retired pay he is now receiving which is based on the law in force on 30 Sept. 1949, which calls for payment of 75 per cent of active duty compensation of the grade held. The new law permits an individual to choose at any time prior to 1 Oct. 1954, whether to be paid under the old or the new law, with any increase retroactive to 1 Oct. 1949.

Since payments for disability retirement under the old law are exempt from Federal income tax, it may be advantageous to some, particularly those with comparatively large private incomes, to continue to be paid under the old law, even though the compensation under percentage of disability and length of service, only partially tax exempt, may be larger.

In such cases it is unnecessary for the individual to choose either method of payment at present. Later, but prior to the expiration of the five-year period, if there is a change in his personal income, or a lowering of tax rates, he may wish to elect to be paid under the new schedules. In this event, he would receive any increase in compensation retroactive to 1 Oct. 1949.

It should be borne in mind, however, that under present rulings, the individual is required to make the choice himself. In case of death it could not be made by a widow, in order to receive undrawn pay increases to which he might have been entitled. To provide against such a contingency it has been speculated that the member could make the election, properly notarized, but not submitted to the Service concerned until after his death, if that occurred within the five-year period.

Britain's New Carrier—The Royal Navy on 3 May launched the largest aircraft carrier ever built by Britain. Christened by Queen Elizabeth, the 36,800-ton vessel was named the Ark Royal after the ship sunk by the Germans in the last war. She is 803 feet long.

With this addition, the British Navy will have seven heavy fleet carriers. The new vessel is expected to be ready for commissioning in 1952.

Army Medical Corps—Reassignment of three Army Medical Corps officers to key Washington posts is announced by Maj. Gen. R. W. Bliss, USA, the Surgeon General. Effective 1 May, Col. Elbert DeCoursey, Commandant, Army Medical Department Research and Graduate School, Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C., was reassigned to the position of Deputy Director, Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, Washington, D. C. On the same date, Colonel William S. Stone, Chairman, Medical Research and Development Board, Office of the Surgeon General, became Commandant of the Medical Department Research and Graduate School. Concurrently, Col. John R. Wood, now Chief, Medical Division, Army Chemical Center, Maryland, assumed the chairmanship of the Surgeon General's Medical Research and Development Board.

Foreign Affairs—As usual the May Day celebration in Moscow this year was marked by an impressive display of military might and by boastful oratory, that was rather surprisingly somewhat less bellicose than customary on such occasions. Premier Joseph Stalin reviewed the great parade and appeared in excellent health.

More than a million participated in the Red demonstration, which included a vast array of ground troops marching past the reviewing stand at the top of the red marble tomb of Lenin. The Russian air force, led by Lt. Gen. Vassily Stalin, son of the dictator, staged the most spectacular air show in Russian peacetime history. Participating in the aerial display were three score four-engine heavy bombers and a large number of jet fighters, including a few of the new two-engine type.

The orator of the day was Lt. Gen. S. M. Shtemenko, chief of the Army General Staff, who warned the "capitalist war mongers" that the Soviet Union was prepared to resist aggression. He said the formation of aggressive blocs—presumably such as the Atlantic Alliance—and the establishment of military bases around the Soviet Union did not frighten Russia. Its armed forces, he said, would "securely defend the inviolability of the Soviet state." Gen. Shtemenko declared a crisis, apparently economic, was approaching in the capitalist countries, but that in Russia the government is advancing confidently on the road of further improvements in living standards.

In Berlin where serious trouble had been anticipated May Day passed rather quietly. Careful preparations to deal promptly with any disorder probably prevented rioting and bloodshed. In the Soviet sector a half million Communists paraded for hours, while in the western sectors anti-Communist demonstrations attracted at least as many. Some angry imprecations were shouted across the boundaries, and there was a small amount of stone throwing.

German civilian police of both East and West Berlin kept the situation in hand, without the open assistance of the military. Apparently both the Russians and the western powers were determined to prevent a serious incident developing from the May Day excitement. In the American sector Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, American commandant, and his staff patrolled the area in helicopters, and directed the civilian police by radio to potential trouble spots.

The relative peace of the traditionally noisy celebration encourages the belief that the mammoth Communist youth demonstration scheduled for Berlin on 28-30 May will not occasion the disorders that had been feared, and for which the western powers have been preparing. Special training is being given Allied troops and German civilian police, which have been strengthened to meet possible threats to the western sectors from exuberant Red demonstrators.

Two East German police, arrested in the American zone last month, were sentenced this week to a year in jail for transporting rifles and machine pistols through the zone, in violation of a four-power edict. Both admitted membership in the Soviet-sponsored East German police force, which they said was a regular military organization.

In an address to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States this week Economic Administrator Paul G. Hoffman predicted that Soviet satellite states would "crack, and crack quite suddenly," under the mounting tension and rigidity of the Russian economy. When the aging Stalin dies, the foreign aid chief declared, there will be a period of turbulence, during which Communist countries will break away from Kremlin dominance, just as Yugoslavia has already done.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the United Nations expects to go to Moscow next week in an endeavor to enlist Russian co-operation in positive measures to end the cold war. Mr. Lie is expected to confer with Marshal Stalin and also to discuss peace plans with foreign ministers of Great Britain, France and the United States, who meet in London next week.

After many delays several hundred Americans and other foreigners have finally reached Hong Kong from Red China. The party included the last of the American diplomatic and consular representatives of the United States in that country. The refugees reported that Communist officials in China are completely dominated by Russian representatives, who now appear to direct the administration of the Red regime.

In Japan Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, head of the Soviet mission, this week formally requested General of the Army Douglas MacArthur to explain the reconstruction of former Japanese naval and air bases. He charged that rehabilitation of key bases, occupied by American forces, is contrary to occupation policies prescribed by the Far Eastern Commission. At the same time General MacArthur again raised the question of outlawing the Communist party in Japan. In a statement in connection with the observance of the third anniversary of the adoption of the new democratic constitution of Japan the Supreme Commander called the party "an avowed satellite of an international predatory force."

Mr. Joseph Grew, pre-war American ambassador to Japan, who has just returned to the United States from a visit to that country, said conditions there are just right for the spread of Communism. He said prevalent inflation, unemployment, lack of foreign trade, and political and economic instability fostered widespread discontent and unrest.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, USA, former deputy military governor of Germany, has been ordered to Korea as head of the U. S. Military Advisory Group, succeeding Brig. Gen. William L. Roberts, USA, who will return to the United States for retirement. The assignment of Gen. Keating coincided with a statement by Senator Tom Connally, (D-Tex.), Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that he expects the Communists to take over all Korea, as well as Formosa, at their convenience.

Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan arrived in Washington this week and will be the guest of the United States on a cross-country trip that will take him to practically every section of the country. Every official courtesy will be extended to the distinguished Moslem statesman.

Munitions Board Director—The Director of the Staff of the Munitions Board is Maj. Gen. Patrick W. Timberlake, USAF, who has held this post since October 1949. Last week's issue of THE JOURNAL erroneously named Maj. Gen. James D. McIntyre as the Staff Director. The identification error was made in connection with the article on legislation which would raise from 17 to 27 the limit on three and four-star Air Force generals. It was pointed out that the Munitions Board charter provides that its military director should hold three-star rank.

WAF Blue Uniform—The new blue uniform for women in the Air Force has yet to be adopted officially, although it is known that samples of the proposed garb were displayed several months ago at various bases. Presumably, the delay is the result of financial limitations, although the expectation remains that an announcement will be made in the near future concerning a blue uniform for WAFS, Nurses and other women serving in the Air Force.

Authorize More Ships

sion of Naval vessels, but this amount was reduced to $350,000,000. It is recalled that in his recent budget testimony, Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, USN, Chief of Naval Operations, declared that not less than $300,000,000 should be provided in 1952 for shipbuilding.

Supporting the $400,000,000 request for conversion of the cruiser to a guided-missiles ship, Admiral Sherman said "we have guided missiles which are sufficiently advanced that they should be introduced into the fleet as soon as possible. We are not warranted in delaying any longer in getting this essential element afloat."

Following is the text of the Armed Service Committee report, with an accompanying table which describes the vessels involved in the proposed program:

The Committee on Armed Services to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 7764) to authorize the construction of modern naval vessels, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report favorably thereon with amendment and recommend that the bill do pass.

The amendment is as follows:
Change the authorized limitation on appropriation in line 14 on page 2 of the bill from $500,000,000 to $350,000,000.

The purpose of H.R. 7764 is to modernize the United States Navy. The end of World War II left the Navy with many ships of numerous types. Most of these vessels were designed, developed, and tested in service prior to 1941. The greater proportion were built in the war years. Under the terms of the bill some will be converted.

World War II at sea was fought successfully by the carrier task force which destroyed opposing fleets and by the amphibious forces which carried the ground soldier to the beaches in order to reach the enemy. The submarines of the Navy exacted a tremendous toll of enemy ships by the steady and relentless pressure of a lonely war under the sea. Five years have passed and there is a pressing need for the vessels which will take the place of those needed for another day now passed.

There is ample statutory authority for the construction of naval combat vessels of types which were used in World War II. The act of 27 March 1934 (48 Stat. 503), as amended, authorized tonnages for certain named combatant categories. These categories do not fit in all respects the needs of a modern Navy. There is an unused authority of about 1,170,000 tons for these categories. The committee recommends H.R. 7764 so that the Congress and the country may be fully aware of the need for the construction of modern naval vessels.

Since the end of the war the Navy has maintained a modest shipbuilding and conversion program in the fiscal years 1948, 1949, and 1950. The authority is that of existing law and the funds are provided by appropriation acts prior to that for the fiscal year 1951.

H.R. 7764 would authorize the construction of some new ships and the conversion of existing types into the modern types of vessels the Navy needs at the beginning of the Atomic Age. This bill is recommended with a view to expressing the intent of Congress in making adequate provision for the maintenance of a modern Navy.

The primary justification for these new vessels and the conversion of old ships rests on the following naval considerations:

(a) High-speed submarines which dive deeply and operate under water most of the time have outmoded the anti-submarine vessels and equipment of World War II. Our surface vessels, transports, and merchant shipping are again vulnerable to submarine attack.

(b) The development of guided missiles against high-speed targets on and under the surface and in the air requires a type of vessel which can launch and control these weapons. Without these missiles our vessels and aircraft cannot operate with maximum effect.

(c) New types of mines developed during and since the war cannot be swept by the mine sweepers used during World War II. Again our transports and merchant shipping will be open to attack from this type of weapon.

(d) Postwar naval aircraft developments call for aircraft carriers with stronger decks and other equipment to permit the launching, operation, and recovery of these better equipped, better armed, and heavier planes.

(e) Nuclear physics has evolved a distinctive form of power development. Atomic energy is now found suitable for the power plants of submarines. The far-reaching implications of these discoveries and their developments necessitate their incorporation in the warships of a modern Navy.

(f) The newer weapons used by the soldier and marine in land warfare will require changes in the landing craft and vehicles needed to move the troops and weapons across the water. Amphibious warfare developments must keep pace with the soldiers' weapons.

The program for the construction and conversion of vessels which would be initially undertaken by the authority of this bill was presented to the committee by the Chief of Naval Operations. It is the identical program recommended by him to the Secretary of the Navy for the fiscal year 1952. It was approved by the Secretary of the Navy and by the Secretary of Defense for planning purposes. It represents the annual increment of the Navy's requirements for ship construction and conversion to keep abreast of modern developments in an orderly manner. A brief description of the prospective naval employment of the vessels proposed to be constructed or converted under the authority of this bill is in the table appended to this report.

A total of 112 ships and craft is proposed for the construction program. The total tonnage for the new construction is about 14,466 tons. A total of 29 ships is listed for conversion. The total tonnage for conversion under the program is about 96,695 tons.

The estimated cost for the construction of the new types of vessels is just under $130,000,000. The estimated cost of the conversion of existing vessels to the new program's types is a little over $184,000,000.

The bill would authorize the construction of new vessels in the total of 50,000 tons and authorize the conversion of existing types up to 200,000 tons. The committee does not consider it advisable to reduce the tonnage but does recommend a reduction in the amount of money authorized for appropriation from $500,000,000 to $350,000,000. As amended, the committee recommends enactment of the measure in order that the Congress may properly discharge its constitutional duty to provide and maintain a Navy.

RCA Profits Increase

At the annual stockholders' meeting of the Radio Corporation of America this week Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, Chairman of the Board, reported net profits for the first quarter of this year of $11,236,231, or 75 cents a share.

This amount was nearly double the net of $5,932,083, or 37 cents a share, earned in the corresponding period of 1949.

General Sarnoff said that television accounted for 50 per cent of the gross income of the corporation in 1949, while in the first quarter of 1950 the proportion had risen to 60 per cent. Television, Gen. Sarnoff said, "already has achieved the stature of a billion-dollar-a-year industry." He added:

"No American industrial enterprise ever moved ahead so rapidly in so short a time. It has wrought a revolution in research, manufacturing, sales, servicing, broadcasting and programming, and its expansion is being accelerated in 1950. In February R. C. A. Victor produced its millionth television set."

Based on industry estimates General Sarnoff predicted that about five million television receivers will be added to the four million in use at the close of 1949.

MERCHANT MARINE

Merchant Shipbuilding

Latest compilation of shipbuilding construction by Lloyd's Register of Shipping reveals that as of 31 March, 4,684,674 gross tons of merchant ships were under construction throughout the world. This compares with 4,394,768 at the end of 1949 and 4,607,739 at the end of the third quarter of 1949.

The gain this year was made despite declines in construction for shipyards in Great Britain, Ireland and the United States. Japan registered again, however, of 270,000 tons. The decrease in the United States was 71,000 tons.

The proportion of the world's ship construction done by the United Kingdom has fallen from 45.4 to 40.4 per cent, while the share of the United States fell from 11.7 to 9.5 per cent.

Comdr. Rudolph D. Jacob

Comdr. Rudolph Daniel Jacob, MC, USN, 35, died 25 April as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident while in the performance of duty.

From 1943 to 1945 Dr. Jacob was assigned to Advanced Base Units in Espiritu Santo, New Hebrides and in the Russell Islands. He later served at the Naval Hospitals at Great Lakes, Long Beach and Treasure Island, and on board the USS AMSTERDAM and USS CHICAGO. Miss Patricia J. Willard

Friends throughout the Army of Col. Sherman S. Willard, USA-Ret., and Mrs. Willard of 5 Brookside Dr., Hamden, Conn., will be saddened to learn that their daughter, Miss Patricia J. Willard, 21, died 30 April. Miss Willard had been in ill health since January, but the immediate cause of her death was attributed to pneumonia.

Surviving, besides her parents, is one brother, Lt. Robert S. Willard, now on duty in San Francisco.

The funeral was held 3 May from the home of her parents, followed by a solemn high requiem mass celebrated at St. Rita's Church, with burial at St. Lawrence Cemetery, Hamden.

The Kuraner Family

One of the major tragedies of the transport crash on the mountain peak southwest of Tokyo, 21 April, was that of one entire family, when Lt. Col. Heinz Kuraner, MC, USA, his wife, their daughter, Martha Ann, 17, and son, Robert Eugene, 15, all lost their lives.

Colonel Kuraner was born at Leavenworth, Kans., and attended the University of Kansas, where he received his medical degree. During his internship at City Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, he met and married the former Miss Alice Barber, a nurse.

He commanded hospitals in England, Paris and Bremerhaven, Germany. At the time of the tragedy, the family was en route from Manila, where Colonel Kuraner had commanded a hospital at Clark AFB.

Surviving Colonel Kuraner are his mother, Mrs. S. J. Kuraner of Leavenworth; two sisters, Miss Hilda Kuraner, Leavenworth, and Maj. Elsie Kuraner, WMSO, of Warm Springs, Ga.; and three brothers, Alfred and Irving Kuraner of Kansas City, Mo., and Walter Kuraner of Heidelberg, Germany.

Mrs. Kuraner is survived by her mother, Mrs. Monte Barber of Cleveland, Ohio; her father, Mr. Ray P. Barber of Toledo, Ohio; a sister, Miss Edith Barber, and one brother, Mr. Merrill Barber of Cleveland.

Brig. Gen. Charles L. Fike, USMC

Brig. Gen. Charles L. Fike, 48, U. S. Marine Corps, retired, died 3 May at Bryn Mawr Hospital, Pa., as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident 30 April near Bryn Mawr.

The late General Fike's military career began in June, 1924, after graduation from the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md. After graduation, he transferred to the Marine Corps and was appointed a Second Lieutenant. He rose to the rank of Colonel and served on active duty until 1 Nov. 1946, when he retired from the regular Marine Corps. Upon retirement he was elevated to the rank of Brigadier General for having been specially commended for performance of duty in combat.

The General's medals and decorations include: the Distinguished Service Medal for action on Guadalcanal while attached to the First Marine Aircraft Wing, Distinguished Flying Cross, Bronze Star Medal, Expeditionary Medal, Second Nicaraguan Campaign Medal, American Campaign Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, and World War II Victory Medal.

Surviving the General is his widow, who resides at 1037 Edge Hill Road, Roslyn, Pa.

Aircraft Manufacture

Growing interest by the American public in air power as the strongest and most comforting arm of national defense is expected to lead to continually increasing activity for aircraft manufacturers. Robert E. Gross, President of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, told shareholders at the company's annual meeting in Burbank, Calif., on 2 May.

He told shareholders that the American public have evidently made up their own minds that they want the strongest and best air defenses, both naval and land-based, that they can possibly afford and still keep the budget near a balance.

He predicted that Air Force and Navy appropriations for aircraft procurement will be constantly larger than recent budgets. This will have a marked effect on the strength of the Nation's air defenses, he said.

Lockheed's operations for the first quarter of 1950 were profitable, running ahead of the comparable period in 1949. The company's backlog stands at approximately $215,000,000, with about $55,000,000 of this total representing orders from commercial airlines for Constellation transport airplanes. The balance is almost evenly divided between orders from the Air Force and the Navy.

Two significant developments in recent years that affect Lockheed's operation and future programs, according to President Gross, are the growing importance of fighter types in Air Force planning and appropriations and the continually growing importance of anti-submarine warfare in the U. S. Navy operations.

Lockheed is strongly established in both of these fields, Mr. Gross said, with a five-year manufacturing program in USAF jet fighter planes, and the development of the company's P2V Neptune patrol airplane as the first completely equipped anti-submarine-warfare airplane.

published in the 29 Oct. issue of THE JOURNAL. That list contained the names of 299 officers. The name of No. 299 was Samuel J. Boyles, whose name appears also on the list sent to the Senate by the President this week. Thus, the complete list of eligibles for promotion to permanent major has been exhausted.

The same issue of THE JOURNAL, 29 Oct., also published the names of 235 Army Promotion List first lieutenants to be captains. The President sent to the Senate 231 nominations for promotion to permanent captain. However, the last name on the list of selections, R. McK. Smith appears on the White House list of nominations. This means that this waiting list has been exhausted also.

In addition to the foregoing nominations, the President named Toxey H. Sewell to be a captain in the Judge Advocate General's Corps. His selection was reported in the 8 Oct. issue.

Seventeen Medical Service Corps officers were nominated for advancement to permanent lieutenant colonel. A list of 18 selections for promotion to lieutenant colonel, MSC, was published in the 17 Dec. issue. The last name on that list, Joseph E. Webb, Jr., is included among the President's nominations.

Forty-eight Medical Service Corps officers were named by the President to be permanent majors. A list of 52 selections appeared in the 17 Dec. issue. The last name on the selection list, Vincent I. Hack, is among those nominated by the President.

The President nominated 15 Army Nurse Corps officers for promotion to permanent lieutenant colonel, the identical number on the selection list in the 17 Dec. issue.

The 25 nurses on the 17 Dec. selection list chosen for permanent promotion to major were all nominated by the President. Helen D. Quinn and Ruby Z. Winslow, whose selection for advancement to permanent major, Women's Medical Specialist Corps, was announced in the 17 Dec. issue were both nominated by the President.

One other nomination was made, that of Catherine E. Francis to be a captain in the Army Nurse Corps.

The following is the complete list of nominations, with the exception of the Army Promotion List lieutenant colonels nominated to be colonels. These latter names are omitted because the complete selection list was published just a few weeks ago.
